WANTS DORA BACK. - Gen. Cassius M. Clay, the venerable sage of White Hall, in Madison, who is now ninetyseven years old, has written to his former child-wife, Dora Richardson Brock, whose husband was killed by a train in Illinois several days ago, asking her to come back and remain with him the rest of his life. Gen. Clay realizes that he has only a short time to live, and he has called continually for his young wife, even since she got a divorce from him and married Brock. Immediately after her marriage to Brock, Gen. Clay bought them a home in Woodford county and furnished it handsomely for them, even decorating the walls with

DECAY OF CONFUCIANISM.

Ms Sway Over the Minds of Literary Chinamen Not What It Was Twenty Years Ago.

Careful observers in China are noticing the gradual decay of Confucianism. Its sway over the minds of the Chinese literati is by no means what it was even as recently as 20 or 30 years ago, says the North China Herald. It is true that there is apparently no marked diminution in the number of ancestral halls, the existence of which all over the land serves as an indication of the vitality of the state religion; yet, nevertheless, the more the country is permeated with western knowledge, the more are the minds of the educated class becoming alienated from the teachings to which before unquestioning obedience was ac-

The reason for this state of things it is not difficult to comprehend. It is gradually dawning upon the educated young men of China that a knowledge of the Confucian classics is no longer what it was from a commercial point of view. And the comprehension of this fact is sufficient to account for the diminishing interest that is being taken in the acquisition of Confucian fearning. It must also be admitted that, as the broader and deeper knowledge introduced and inculcated by western scholars is being assimilated, there is an ever-increasing realization of how inadequate Confucianism is, notwithstanding its merits, to meet the requirements of the present day.

MEN OF AFFAIRS.

Sir James Marwick retires from the own clerkship of Glasgow after a 30 years' service on a pension of $12,500 per year. His salary was $17,500, making the office he held the best paid municipal post in Great Britain.

Emperor William has been taken to task for asserting in a recent afterdinner speech that he is "one of the youngest sovereigns of Europe." In fact, the German emperor stands about midway between the venerable King Christian and the boyish king of Spain. The rulers of Bulgaria, Portugal, Russia, Italy, Servia, Holland and Spain are all younger than Emperor William.

Senator F. Dumont Smith, of Kinsley, lectured on "Words" in Wichita. Kan., a few night ago. He is for spelling reform, and in advocating it in his Jecture said that he knew of only one argument in favor of the old way and that was given by an English bishop who declared that the present method of spelling helped the churches. According to the bishop: "By the time you can make a boy believe that 't-h-r-o-u-g-h' spells 'through,' that "t-h-o-u-g-h' spells 'though' and "t-o-u-g-h' spells 'tough' you can make Kim believe anything.'

The upper circle of Cleveland were much exercised the other day on hearing that Gen. J. Warren Keifer, former speaker in the house of representatives had appeared at breakfast that morning in the Hollenden hotel dining-room wearing a dress suit. He was accompanied by Gen. Joe Wheeler and some other prominent citizens. A friend explained that the general had adopted full dress for all occasions and that he wears no other style of eostume. The elite, however, offers the more charitable explanation that

POOR COWS EXPENSIVE.

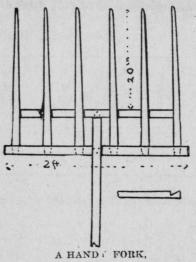

Why Thousands of Dairy Animals in the United States Should Be Sold for Beef.

Some dairymen would be better off if they did not have so many cows as they own at present and some would be actually better off if they had none. This is a hard saying, but it is true. The sooner the poor cows are weeded out of the herd the better. It takes a fairly good cow to pay expenses. There are millions of cows in the United States that are not fairly good. This is proven by statistics regarding the average of milk and butter production. The average cow millions of cows poorer than the average cow. From the average cow promp paying tenants at down they should be sent to the shambles. The farmers of the United States would be ahead what they received from them as beef. This would be clear gain, and more, for it would be preventing annual losses that are now occurring with great regularity. The men that scoff at book farming, that will not read agricultural papers and that will not attend farmers' institutes are the fellows for the most part that are keeping these expensive poor cows. The men that are awake and that think are quitting that kind of business. Moreover, the men that are progressive are getting ahead of the men that refuse to think. They are going out among the slow men and are annually buying their best cows to put into their own herds. They are doing this at the expense of a few dollars per cow more than they would have to pay for a poor cow. They are doing the right thing, for if the other men refuse to be instructed they must necessarily suffer the loss of their best animals. A cow that will make a profit of $50 a year is certainly worth twice as much as the cow that will make only $25 profit in a year, yet the foolish man that sells the better cow will part with her for $35 when he would want $25 for a poor cow. Every farmer should investigate the matter and as quickly as possible get rid of his expensive poor cows.-Farmers' Review.

A handy fork for handling shredded or cut fodder or chaff of all kinds is shown in the illustration. It is made of one-half-inch stuff for tines. The head is one inch square stuff. The piece that goes under the tines to hold the end of handles is one-half by one inch. Bore one-half- build two nice rent cottages inch holes through the head, and round off tines to fit, then nail crossis four and one-half inches space between the two pieces. Then put the handle on over the head and under the crosspiece and nail it. Cut a notch (as in small cut) in end of handle where it goes under crosspiece. Hanboard .- F. H. Peck, in Ohio Farmer.

Corn for Dairy Feeding.

An enthusiastic advocate of soiling says that the truth of the prediction made some years ago that corn will soon take the place of grass for dairy and cattle feeding is already realized by many farmers. With the progressive dairymen pasturing is considered out of date and a wasteful method. the low price of $2,000. Hay is inferior to prepared cornstalks for feeding purposes, and now that we can supply perfect corn ensilage for feeding we have more particular need for the pastures. An acre of pasture will not supply much more than onefifth of the food required to support a cow through the growing months. One acre of corn will give all the green food it needs from the first of July to the first of October. On the same piece of land corn raised for soiling will make four times as much green food for a cow as will grass.

CARRIED OUT HIS PLANS.

Last Request of a Dving Millionaire Obeyed by His Mourning Children.

A millionaire had died. There had been great apparent grief among those who had been most substantially re- demand as this is almost certain to and hadn't got a dollar, relates the

Baltimore American. aire's sons had gathered for conference. Among the pet plans of the old man's declining days was a magnificent | palities. Besides, it is not more palace, on whose style of construction he had disagreed with every other member of the family. "You will remember," said the eldest bors? son, choking back his emotion wonderfully well, "that it was the last request that we carry out every plan he had made regarding the new house."

"Yes," they groaned in chorus. "Well, I have arranged that it be done." Thereupon he piled all the plans of his father's architect into a large wastebasket and bore them triumphantly out to the rubbish bin in the back alley. "I may say truthfully that it is a pleasure to carry out the plans, even though we disagreed in their forming." replied the young man as he returned with the empty basket.

A MUCH-TRAVELED KING.

Edward VII. Has Visited Many Foreign Lands as Prince and Ruler.

Alexander and Caesar, Hannibal and Peter the Great must be accounted mere stay-at-homes compared with Edward VII. Before he was of age as prince of Wales, besides visiting most of the European courts, he had passed across the Atlantic-no holiday affair in 1860-on his tour through Canada and his visit to the United States. He witnessed Niagara illuminated and he saw Blondin carry a man pick-a-back across the falls. Side by side with President Buchanan he stood at the graveside of Washington-the man who had wrested an empire from his great-grandfather, George III., says the London Outlook. Later, under the guidance of Dean Stanley, he saw the holy land. He has ascended the great pyramid. He has steamed up the Nile and traversed the Suez canal. He has threaded the Dar- post (b), and press down on lever. danelles with a sultan of Turkey and accompanied the remains of a czar post leans badly. RURAL FREE DELIVERY.

Its Future Development Depends of the Equitable Solution of the Road Problem.

The remarkable growth of the rural free mail delivery system, and the willingness of congress to appropriate money for extensions faster than the extensions can be made, have been surprising even to the most enthusiastic friends of the system. "Why, the thing is spreading like wildfire," remarked a gentleman who had been reading up on the subjust. "At this rate rural free mail delivery will be universal in a few years." At first glance this view appears to be correct, but in fact such a view is merely superficial. It takes no great amount of investigation to convince one that the system must meet and overcome very great obstacles before it can even become general, to say nothing of being universal. So far the system has sailed on smooth and open seas with favorable winds. But now it is rapidly approaching a region of rocks and snags and storms. Dropping the maritime figure and coming back to terra firma, the great obstacle to the general spread of the rural free delivery system is the miserable roads of the country. So far the system has only been extended to communities blessed with good roads. Among the many communities demanding the introduction of the system the post office department has been able to select those which have good roads, either as a result of favorable natural condition or communities, which have been passed by, have consoled themselves with the thought that their turn would come soon. But when these disappointed communities-and their number is increasing very rapidly-find out that they are permanently barred from enjoying the benefits of free delivery on account of the condition of their roads, a cry of indignant opposition will be raised, and it will grow into an angry roar above which it is doubtful if the friends of free delivery can be heard. When this storm breaks the beneficiaries of the system will be found to be a small minority and the disappointed a large majority of the rural population. Suppose the minority stands on its dignity and says: "What are you going to do about it?" What's to prevent the disappointed majority from wiping out the whole system and thus restoring "equality before the law?" Or suppose the minority says: "Why don't you improve your roads, and thus secure the blessing; of free mail delivery?" The majority can answer: "In improving our roads we have to overcome greater obstacles, and our means are less. Why not help us improve our roads through general taxation?" Such a membered. And some real-for-sure re- result from the agitation for rural gret among those who had expected to, free delivery of the mails. And what is there unreasonable or unjust about such a demand? BRACING FENCE POSTS.

A Homemade Implement Which Does the Work as Well as Those Sold in Shops,

Take a 2-inch plank 4 feet long, 6 inches wide, rip it diagonally into two pieces, 2x2 inches at one end, 2x4 inches at the other. Butt the 4-inch ends together and connect them with a pair of heavy strap hinges.

Cut another piece 4 feet long for a lever and bolt it on as shown in cut. The upper end of the machine should

The Best Farmer Defined.

LEVELER AND SMOOTHER.

How to Construct a Straightener and Lever Which Are Sure to Do Good Work.

For the many farmers who do not have rollers, here is an implement that does the work just as well. On cloddy land it is better as it crushes; for land with small, loose stones it is just the thing to make the ground smooth for the reaper or mower. It levels up uneven places without so much packing and can be used on any soil.

It is made of planks about 12 inches wide. If hardwood is used 13/4 inch planks are desirable, but if hemlock two-inch thick is best. It should be three planks wide and eight or nine feet long. The front plank superior wealth. The less favored should be turned slightly up and secured by 2x6-inch joists nailed or bolted across, as illustrated. It can be drawn by chain or tongue as preferred. This planker can be loaded with the larger stones as it is drawn over the field and emptied at fence turn. The material need not cost over $1.50 for the outfit.-Orange Judd Farmer.

CHANGE BADLY NEEDED.

Our Road System, as Now in Vogue in Most States, Is the Worst Kind of Failure.

With the ground full of water when it froze up and with a fairly open winter and a liberal amount of rain during the latter part, we have a new emphasis placed upon the good roads problem in some sections having newly established free delivery mail routes. When the patrons are shut in for three or four days at a time without their mail, the roseate hue of the new system begins to fade away. The establishment of centralized school systems will present still another argument for road improvement. In many seetions of the prairie the pavement of roads with stone or even gravel is very expensive owing to a lack of such materials in those localities. Very great improvement may, however, be made with the materials at hand. Dirt roads can be made that will be passable under practically all kinds of weather and that, during the greater part of the year, will be very good roads. One of the most universal failings of our roads is lack of proper under-drainage. This is the first essential of good road, regardless of the kind of material used for the surface. Stone or any other kind of paving will not keep in shape on top of a soft, spongy, water-soaked foundation. With a porous reservoir beneath the roadbed, into which the water taken up thereby can persolate. the old mudhole without a bottom will be a thing of the past. Perhaps the next most important step in the securing of better roads is a provision whereby they will have constant atextensive. This will involve the abolfarmers when they have nothing else to do, and will involve also the payment ployment of a competent man by the year, who will devote his whole time to the work, and, with a crew of men constantly at work, will repair defects whenever and wherever they occur. will be made at the time when the work can be done the most economically and the best results be obtained, To per yd; Lawn, worth 7 1-2c, at 10c; Men's 25c half hose at 15c; $2 Slippers at $1.50. rather than when it suits the convenience of those perferming the work. EMINENT CITIZENS.

The most eminent citizens of the United States of negro blood will address the country in a book to be published in September entitled "The Negro Problem." The race question will be discussed by Booker T. Washington, Prof. W. E. Burghardt Dubols, Charles W. Chestnutt, Paul Laurence Dunbar, T. Thomas Fortune, Wilford H. Smith and H. T. Keating.

When Samuel W. Pennypacker, the governor of Pennsylvania, was a young Philadelphia lawyer, a friend met him one day going down Chestnut street with a number of big law books under each arm. "Hello," said the friend, pointing to the books, "I thought you carried all that stuff in your head." "So I do," returned young Pennypacker. "These are for the judges."

Seymour W. Tulloch, whose charges against the post office department have occasioned a grave scandal, was laid up last winter with a cold that a bad cough accompanied. His physician visited him one morning and found him worse. "You seem to cough with more difficulty to-day than yesterday," the physician said. "That is strange," Mr. Tulloch murmured, "for I was practicing all last night."

Cleveland newspapers say that no visitor to that city was ever under such close guard as was thrown around President Roosevelt during his stay there while attending the McCormick-Hanna wedding. From the moment of his arrival in Cleveland until he stepped on his special train for the return trip to Washington he was continually under the eye of a dozen picked secret service men under the direction of Detective Tyree, who was constantly at his side during the recent tour of the country. The Hanna residence was carefully picketed on every side day and night, and all available city detectives were massed at and near the church when the wedding was being solemnized. Forty uniformed men were also on duty there.

Harvest hands on the farm of Col. Charles L. Daugherty, near Bowling Green, Ky., went on strike a few days ago, demanding an increase in pay. The colonel was away from home, but Mrs. Daugherty, a club and society woman, refused to raise wages. Nearly all of the farm hands left, whereupon Mrs. Daugherty mounted the binder, and, aided by a few men who remained, cut 20 acres of wheat before a new force could be secured.

Few members of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals are as energetic and faithful to the cause as Mrs. Florence C. Bethune, a society woman and wife of the well-known New York lawyer. Mrs. Bethune has within a few months caused the arrest of eight men for cruelty to horses, and in each case appeared in court to testify against the accused. After securing the conviction of a driver recently Mrs. Bethune announced that she will now direct her energies against mail delivery contractors for inhuman treatment of horses. In the last year Mrs. Bethune has turned over 36 sick and homeless dogs to the society.

PRINCE'S SELF-EFFACEMENT.

King Edward's Sensible Course While His Royal Mother Was on Earth.

The world is beginning to realize the king. It took some time to do so. There were plenty of people who had grown so accustomed to the self-effacement which the king had practiced so long as prince of Wales dur- Substantial Structure Which Can B. ing the lifetime of his mother as to have come to the conclusion that in all the serious affairs of his kingdom the king would count for little, says London M. A. P. Mind you, there were some ground for this assumption. It is not generally known that this self-effacement was the result not merely of the prince's own act and respect for his mother, but also of deliberate ministerial act. Some time in the seventies the question was raised whether, as the prince was practically performing all the cere- separator, butter worker, cream vats. monial duties of royalty, he should not also share in some of its political responsibilities. One of the first things to be done if this question were decided in the affirmative was to intrust to the prince a large amount of secret official knowledge-important foreign office dispatches, for example-which up to that time were submitted to the eyes of the queen alone. It is scarcely credible, but I have every reason to believe it is true, that the cabinet, after they had debated the question very seriously and very thoroughly, came to the conclusion that it would be a violation of constitutional usage to give the prince of Wales this information. The king accepted the decision with the good sense which he always displays-a good sense typical of the nation to which he so thoroughly belongs;; and went on his way, content to be a spectator of the great drama going on immediately around him, and to be left to his own resources for the gaining of knowledge of the secret springs and unavowed motives of age. The Jesup expedition, sent out by the American museum of natural hisstill in her twenties, who opened the tory to investigate the native tribes of northewestern America and northeastern Asia, has completed its field work and collected some 20,000 specimens of household articles, dress, ornaments, tools and weapons, such as have never before been exhibited. The explorations extended from the Columbia river around the North Pacific coast to the Amur river in Asia. Close similarities were found in the customs. dress, implements, folk lore and other characteristics of the American and Siberian tribes, pointing, it is thought, machine that was ever invented. to the common origin of these people at some remote past time. If brick is used at eight dollars per 1,000, the cost laid will be from $13 to $15 per 1,000. I am reliably informed that a wall of cement, sand and stone of equal strength and sustaining power, with an air chamber, and these two walls held firmly by iron ties, can be built cheaper than a brick wall. The cut shows a ground plan. The location of the equipment may be changed. No opening is provided between butter room and the boiler room. LONGEVITY OF QUAKERS.

Estimated Duration of the Average Friend's Life Given as Fifty-Eight Years.

The longevity of Quakers was dis-the other day, says the Philadelphia Record. A physician of Quaker descent said: "It is undoubtedly true that Friends are among the longest lived persons in the world. Statistics, laboriously and accurately collected, prove this clearly. The statistics were compiled here in Philadelphia in 1860. They showed the duration of the average Friend's life to be 58 years. There were livat that time in this city 30 ends who were over 88 years old, there were 50 other Friends whose years aggregated 5.258. These persons, that is to say, were, on the average, 85 years old. Marked longevity among our people proves how wholesome and beneficial our rules of living are. The abstemiousness, the early hours, the avoidance of worldly excitement-these were the things that multiplied so remarkably our forefathers' years."

WOMEN WHO WEAR TROUSERS.

Squad of Feminine Gardeners in Kew Gardens Work in Bifurcated Garments.

At Kew gardens, in London, a small, intelligent, capable and scientific tablished by Charles II., and some is employed. They labor in the potting sheds wield the pruning shears, study fertilizers and wear trousers.

In summer their nether bifurcated garments are of dark blue linen or brown, as the wearer prefers. They have adopted long breeches, strapped close to the leg below the knees and about the ankles to permit unimpeded stepping in and out among close-set plants. A blue smocked frock loosely gathered in by a broad belt at the waist forms the remainder of their very sensible uniform. The public when visiting the famous gardens easily catches a glimpse of them.

Interesting Statistics.

The death rate of the globe is estimated at 68 a minute, 97,920 a day, or 35,740,800 a year. The birth rate is 70 a minute, 100,800 a day, or 36,972,-000 a year, reckoning the year to be 365 days in length.

BRITAIN'S POSTAL BANKS.

Their Assets Are Less Than Their Deposits, But No Uneasiness Is Felt.

The fact is odd, says the New York World. The post office savings banks family are dressed in mourning upon of Great Britain are technically insolvent. Their deposits at the end of the cussed by a group of Philadelphians year were $700,000,000, their assets only about $670,000,000. Nobody worries about a little thing like that; the government is responsible. Of course the discrepancy rose from the high prices the department was forced to pay for national bonds before the Boer war. The lowering of the rate of interest allowed is an obvious cure. The postal banks were authorized in 1881 and nearly $10.000,000 was deposited the first year. Some later developments are curious. By the "slip" system a sum so small as two cents can be deposited. Deposits can be withdrawn by telegraph. School savings banks are recnized, but are not very successful, owing to the superior attractions of sweets as a medium of investment. A feature of the postal banks is that, through their agency, depositors can ince buy small fractional portions of government bonds.

EDWARD'S PRIVATE BAND.

Dissolution of the Historic Institution Through the Playing of Ragtime.

King Edward has given orders for the disbandment of his private band, one of the ancient features of his court. In its present form it was essquad of practical women gardeners authorities assert that a "state" band existed in the days of Queen Elizabeth. It is composed of 34 musicians, under the direction of Sir Walter Parratt, "master of the musick." Its members are the best that can be secured in England, and this is the real cause of its dissolution. Unlike his mother, King Edward does not care much for state concerts by his own musicians, and since his accession the duties of the band have been confined chiefly to the playing of light music, including ragtime, during royal dinners. This they regard as undignified, and the king regards as extravagant: The same music can be played as well by fewer and less notable musicians. Therefore another ancient institution has coal on a cold winter's day. The prodbeen done away with.

AN EFFECTIVE HOTBED.

Valuable Suggestions for Farmers Who Are Thinking of Giving Gardening a Fair Trial.

The location for a good hotbed needs to be chosen with some care: it should be sheltered by trees or by a good, broad fence on the north side. This fence should be six and one half feet high, and is usually built leaning back about six inches from perpendicular at the top so that mats sashes or shutters leaned up against the fence will not so readily be blown down by the wind. The land should slope a little to the south or southeast, and the beds should be either level or of even grade from end to end in order to run the planks straight from one end to the other Th bed should face southeast, south cr southwest, according to the lay of not less than eight horses are kept, well fed with grain. The manure should be piled up near the bed until enough is ready. It will need a cord of manure for each ten or 15 sashes. If not needed immediately, it should be pitched over frequently, to prevent burning. When ready the manure should be forked into the bed, not dumped, and well trodden down as it is placed in the pit, until the required amount is in place. Then it should be immediately covered with the loam and the sashes placed on the frame, and over them the mats, if the weather is cold.

The best material for heat is fresh horse manure from a stable where

In about two days after being made up the bed will attain its greatest degree of heat if everything works well, perhaps 90 to 115 degrees. After this, the heat will gradually decline, and after four weeks will usually be about 50 to 60 degrees. The deeper the manure is packed in the bed the higher will be the heat and the longer will it be retained. When beds are started in January and February, it is needful to make them considerably deeper than in March and April. Indeed, after April 15 heat is hardly needed at all except for cucumbers.

The frames for hotbeds are usually put in order in the fall before the ground freezes, and are covered with leaves or other litter deeply enough to prevent freezing. Whenever they are wanted the pit is dug out in sections about six feet at a time, throwing back the surface loam to the depth of six inches upon the section already filled with manure, and then carting away whatever more is needed in order to make the pit of the required depth.

The advantages in building beds in this manner over the method of building them above ground are that the manure in a pit will retain its thanks his host for the entertain- heat better than when exposed to the wind, and the bed will need far less watering. Hotbeds thus constructed are used for forcing winter crops of lettuce and radishes, and for starting seeds of tomatoes, cabbage, lettuce, peppers, cucumbers and onions for transplanting to the open field in April and May. In the accompanying illustration a represents the sash, b the plank, e loam, d manure, e mats, and g the fence at the back .- Orange Judd Farmer.

SPRING GARDEN WORK.

The garden plot may be cleared off and the trash burned before the ground is in condition to plow.

If you have only a few raspberry and currant bushes on the place, put the coal ashes about them.

Good seed, well planted in good soil, well prepared, seldom fails to grow. Once up and good culture given, they generally give satisfactory returns Plant good seeds.

Burn all trash from the garden; besides the tidy appearance given by the operation an untold number of insects and fungi germs will be put beyond the power of doing damage to the garden this summer. The ashes will do good, not harm, to the garden.

Gooseberry and currants may be propagated from cuttings. Take last year's growth of wood, stick in well prepared soil so that two or more buds are below the surface. Do this before the buds swell. Keep free from weeds this season. Next spring you can transplant a nice little bush.

Dust Spraying in Favor.

Spraying materials have been applied more or less from the first in the form of a dry powder, usually diluted with slaked lime, flour or some other cheap substance. This method has generally been used in treating lowgrowing plants like potatoes, but in some sections it has within the last few years been given a wider application and used in combating orchard pests. It is highly recommended by some of those who have adopted it. and appears to be of growing importance. It would seem to be of specia! get water for the wet method. Several machines for dusting plants and trees are on the market.
